

WinkWorld May 2004

Hello Friends,

Hope you enjoy the websites we are sharing this month.

Websites of Interest

The teachers/grad students in class have been researching websites. We have organized them into the following themes: Diversity and Democracy; Students and Standards; History and Herstory; Reflection and Reform; and Justice and Gender. In what follows, we are sharing a selection of some of the links from each category.

Diversity and Democracy:

<http://www.JoanWink.com/itt/diversity.php>

Students and Standards:

<http://www.JoanWink.com/itt/students.php>

History and Herstory:

<http://www.JoanWink.com/itt/history.php>

Reflection and Reform:

<http://www.JoanWink.com/itt/reflection.php>

Justice and Gender:

<http://www.JoanWink.com/itt/justice.php>

The truth is that the teachers/grad students are putting together many more sites arranged in these 5 categories. I will probably share more in the future, when we get them all organized.

I think that the following two websites will be useful for teachers. Education World,

<http://www.education-world.com>

The Teacher's Guide, <http://www.theteachersguide.com>

More on ePortfolios

This month we share an update on ePortfolios from Brian Briggs. Interdisciplinary Middle Years Multimedia (IMYM)

<http://www.edu.gov.mb.ca/ks4/tech/imym/faqs/portfolios.html>

Heritage Language

Here are a couple of pages on heritage language from our new book.

Here is the reference if any of you need it:

Wink, J., & Wink, D. (2004, pp. 112-114). Teaching passionately: What's love got to do with it? Boston: Allyn & Bacon.