

Critical Pedagogy: Notes from the Real World

by: Joan Wink

Review by: Heather Dumas

Welcome to My Real World...

"It is not finite; it is not fixed; it is not easily defined and understood in a neat little package"
(pg.1)

---Wyatt---

How in the World Did I Get Into This?

The Benson Kids

Reading improves writing

Choice matters.

We get smarter when we write.

We love it when someone responds to our writing.

Flexibility and a sense of humor help.

What in the World Do You Think It Is?

“Initially, these words were symbols without meaning; I had to play with them, read them, write them, and talk about them before meaning gradually started to develop. The relationship between the words and the thought, however, is never static; as words develop, thought develops; and as thought gradually develops, the words change with the emerging ideas” (pg. 31).

Carmen and Rainey

Post-it Patterns

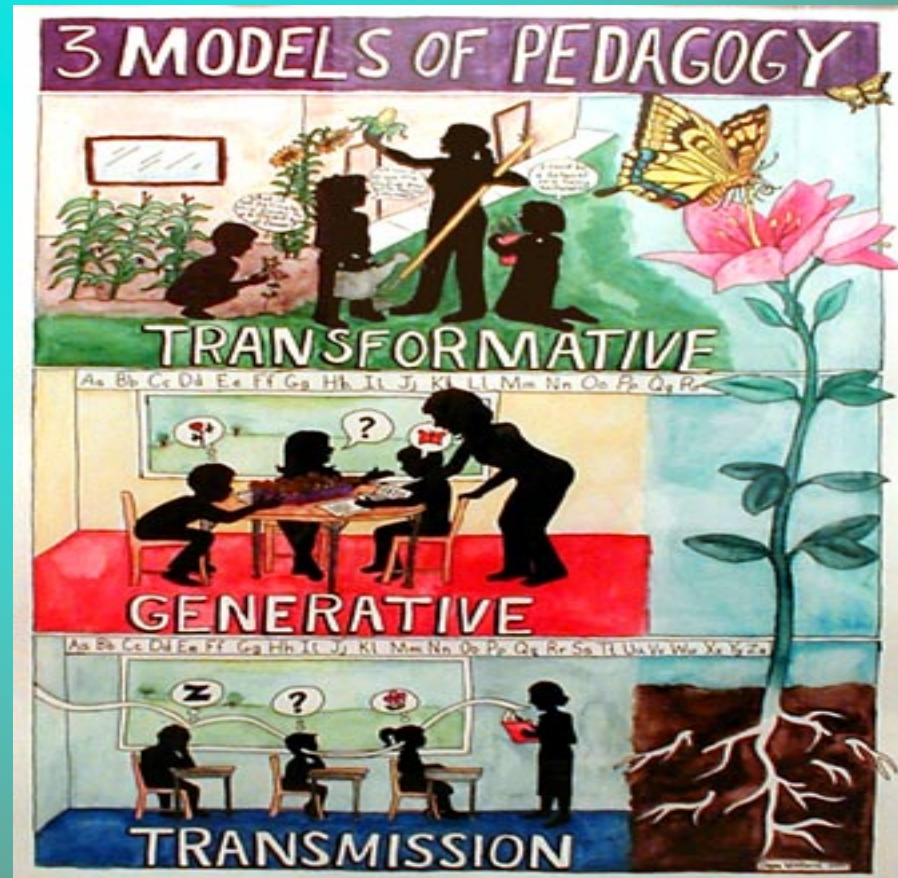

New Words, New Friends

What in the World Do I Think It Is?

“Critical pedagogy encourages us to find the magic of personal discovery based on our own lived experiences” (pg. 67)

Where in the World Did It Come From?

Paulo Freire

*“There is no possibility for teaching without learning.
As well as there is no possibility of learning without teaching”~Paulo Freire*

Others:

Karl Marx

Gramsci

Tove Skutnabb-Kangas

John Dewey

Alma Flor Ada

Paloma McCaleb

Henry Giroux

Peter McLaren

Jim Cummins

Stephen Krashen

How in the World Do You Do It?

Popcorn

Four Corners

Pair Share

How in the World Do You Do It With Families?

Get involved with student learning!

Communities

Families

Galileo

Why in the World Does It Matter?

“Our futures matter--that’s why” (pg.165).

A Caring Heart

A Critical Eye

The End

What an interesting and educational book!

Thank you Dr. Wink!!!

