
Instructional Institute Day 2012

Tuesday, January 24, 2012

8:30am - 2:00pm

Faculty Development Center, Room 118

"Critical Pedagogy"

Presented by Dr. Joan Wink

Professor Emeriti, Department of Teacher Education

2006-2007 Outstanding, Research, Scholarship, and Creative Activity Award
Recipient

Joan will share her understandings of critical pedagogy: Why does it matter? What is it? Where did it come from? And, How in the world do we do it?

In critical pedagogy, ~critical~ does not mean criticize. Rather, it means that that we bring a perspective to our teaching and learning which calls upon us to see more clearly the social, cultural, and political hidden processes which are also a part of teaching and learning.

- Critical pedagogy calls on us to see the inequalities of schooling.
- Critical pedagogy calls upon us to reflect on our own roles within schools.
- Critical pedagogy calls us to take action for social justice within classrooms and communities.
